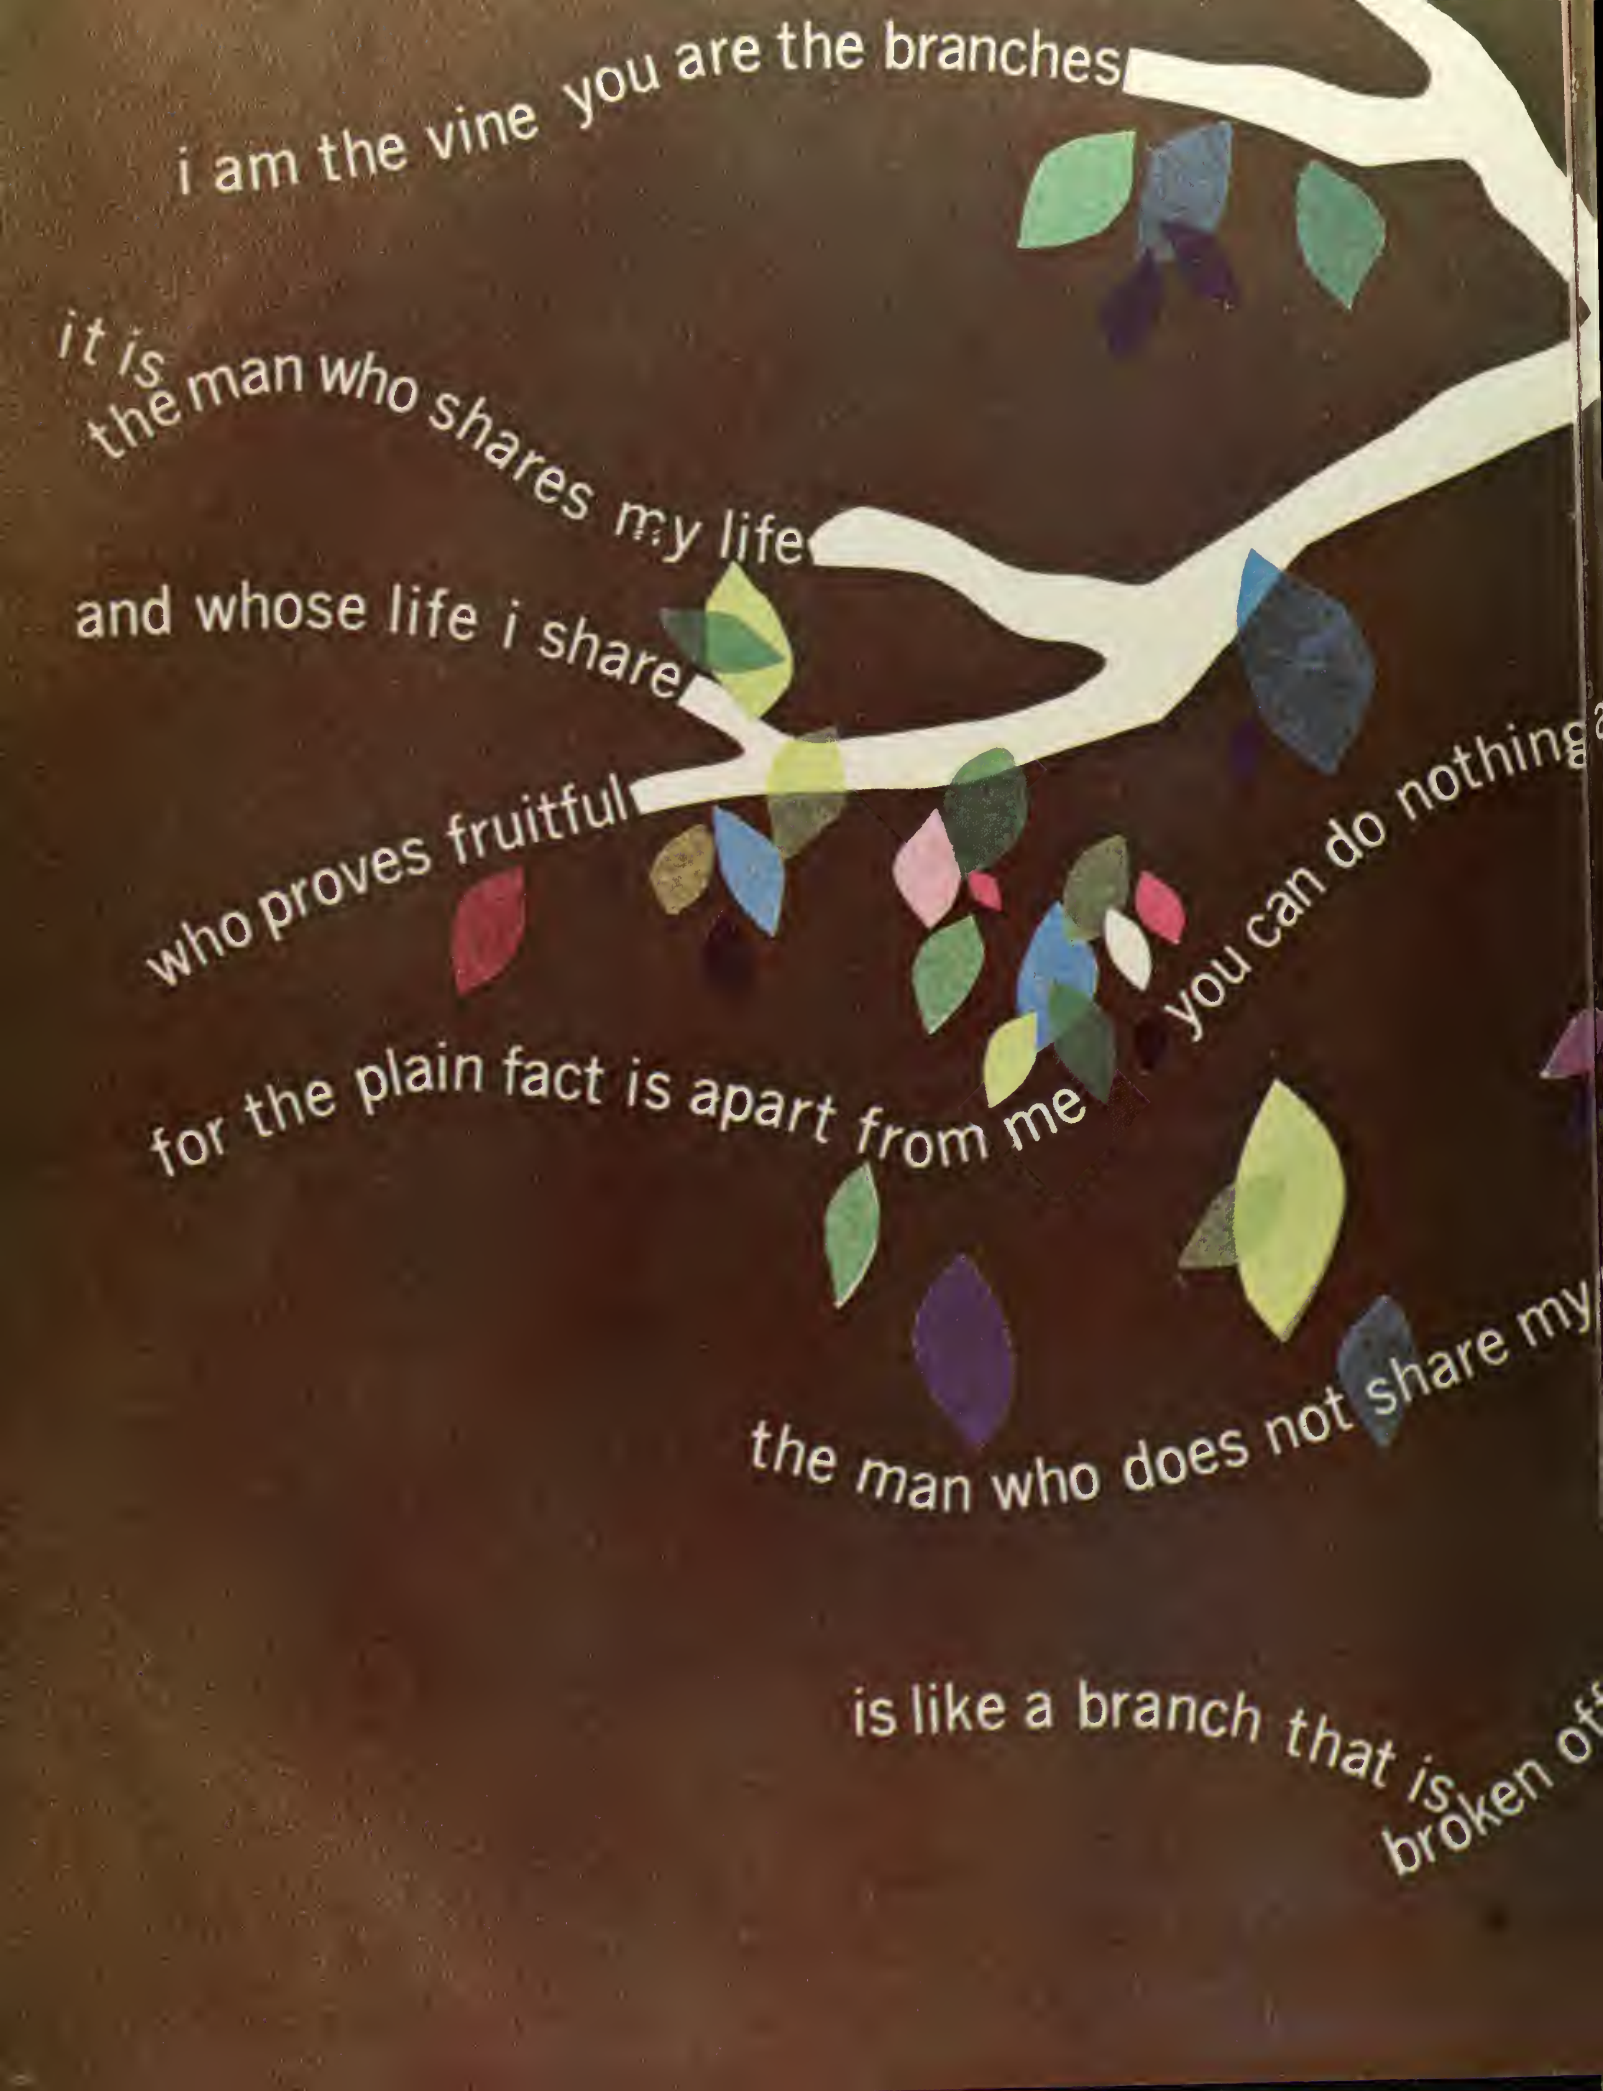
that which is fresh and alive with purposeful vitality never withers of life. california lutheran college was shaken when the news of two deaths reached the campus, that of alan hoxeng, student from moorehead, minnesota, son of mr. & mrs. julian hoxeng, and dr. seth c. eastvold, acting president of the college, author, past president of pacific lutheran university. two strong branches . . . severed. both of these lives in retrospection were rich in accomplishments, highly regarded . . . leaving as a valediction those virtues which both god and man extol. we of the college family eulogize their memories.

one of the most widely respected men in lutheran higher education, dr. elwin d. farwell, clc's dean since 1960, was this year called to the presidency of luther college in decorah iowa. his departure in january was a great loss to california lutheran college, and a great gain for luther college. dr. farwell will not soon be forgotten at clc. a brilliant man of letters, it was the work of dr. farwell which proved invaluable in establishing the academic side of the college.

far from being merely an outstanding administrative official, however, dean farwell was a warm inspirational figure to the students of clc. his door was always open, and his concern for the student was widely recognized. his home was the scene of many student gatherings and discussions. for a year and a half, his presence made clc a more pleasant and worthwhile place to be.

for his abilities to know and understand the student, for his efforts to help them mature intellectually and spiritually, and for his success in laying the groundwork of california lutheran college as an academic institution, we dedicate this yearbook to you, dr. farwell.



i am the vine you are the branches
it is the man who shares my life and whose life i share
who proves fruitful
for the plain fact is apart from me you can do nothing the man who does not share my is like a branch that is broken what's in a theme? for the staff of campanile, in two different areas our theme has had a multitude of implications and applications. first, it has provided an excellent means of maintaining a functional unity and continuity within the yearbook. secondly, in the broader area of its philosophical applications, our theme has conveyed to us quite beautifully concepts which sustain each of us individually and california lutheran college collectively . . . .

a community of students with diverse personalities and opinions, but with the fertile unity of a common bond among them.
"a lofty purpose shared. . . ." one with god,
one with each other, each flowering into mature understanding, outgrowths of that central vine—the christian life.

the student council, surely one of the most active organizations on campus, is vested with many diverse duties. its powers encompassed such divergent areas as supervising elections and handling correspondence (such as congratulatory letters to plu).
probably the highlight of the year for the council was the annual retreat at the miramar. but such excursions were the exception as the weekly meetings in the plush a.s.b. offices lasted long into the night, and sheafs of minutes testified to the accomplishments of the council . . . it was almost like being important.

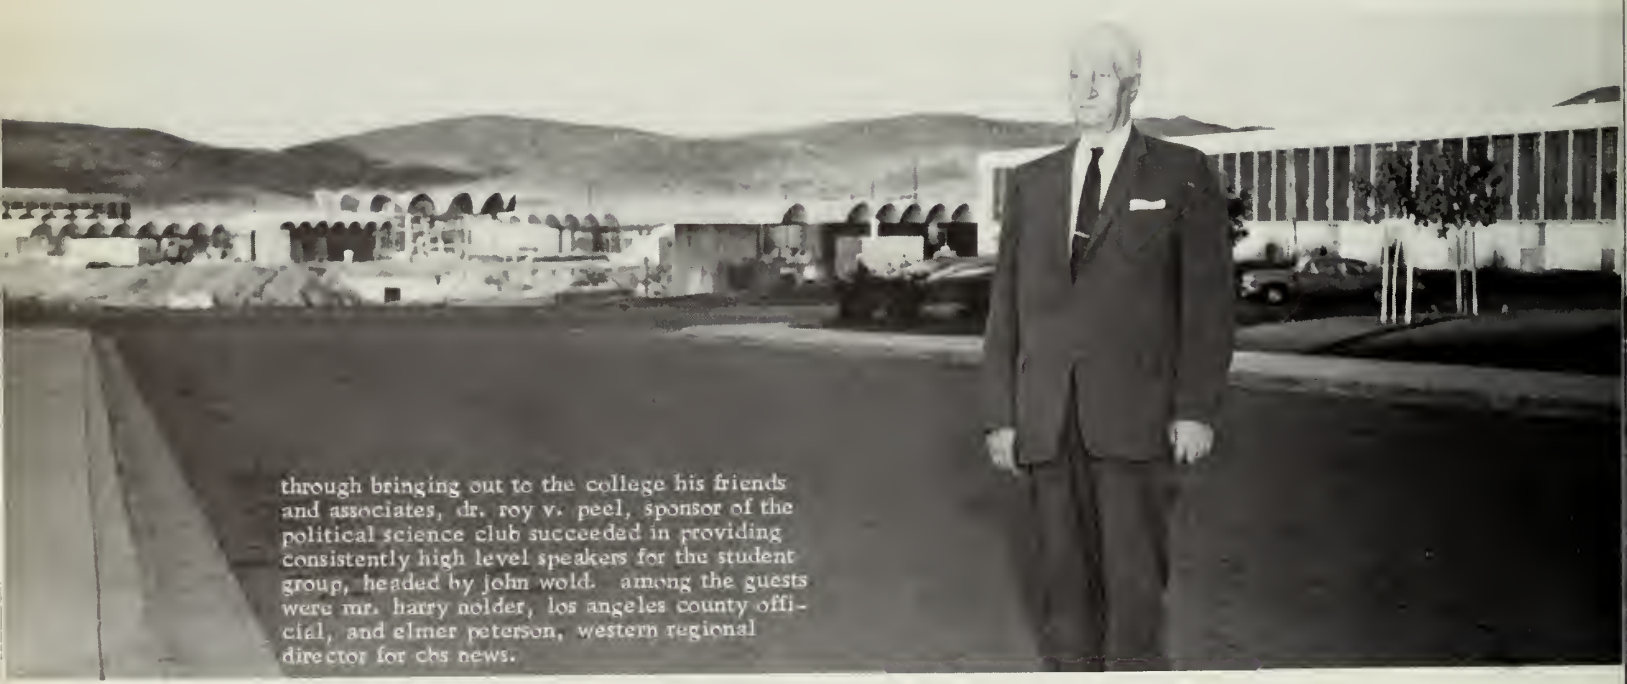
the mountclef inn was the scene of many changes this year. for the first few weeks, everyone was in the east wing as the final preparations and details were cleared up for the opening of the west wing. throughout the year, the appearance of the inn underwent subtle changes. the walls were painted; furniture was added in the foyer; the lautenschleger memorial chapel was dedicated. life was often hectic, but minor tribulations were survived. despite coke bottles in the driers, things settled down considerably by second semester.



through bringing out to the college his friends and associates, dr. roy v. peel, sponsor of the political science club succeeded in providing consistently high level speakers for the student group, headed by john wold. among the guests were mr. harry nolder, los angeles county official, and elmer peterson, western regional director for cbs news.

in its first year of inter-collegiate competition, the mountclef forensics guild carried the clc banner to such exotic places as denver, tucson, honolulu, and san fernando. under the guidance of mr. tony dexter, the team really pulled in the brass.

the members of the spanish club on the right plan to spend the summer in mexico, studying at the university of mexico city. miss rhoda dybvig, who herself is very familiar with the language and culture of mexico, sponsored the club.

with a new state law going into effect this july, there was much to discuss at the meetings of the education club. many outside speakers were also brought in to explain and extol the virtues of pedagogy. the club was sponsored by dr. alan leland, clc's acting dean.

clc's pre-seminarians club was one of the most active on campus. their activities included attending the talc district convention. sponsored by religion professor james g. kallas, the group also heard various speakers throughout the year.

the elephant racing association again this year participated in the southern california college's 2nd annual elephant race. this year, clc placed second.

honors seminar

probing the enigmatic topic of "the nature of man," clc honor students heard and discussed various controversial aspects of this subject. faculty members and guest lecturers presented their topics to responsive students who further probed with questions and observations. dr. albert finholt, chairman of the division of science and mathematics of st. olaf college presented an exciting lecture on contemporary views within man's scientific nature, comparing this with man's spiritual nature. all students with a 3.5 gpa were eligible.

moving ahead not only academically and physically, california lutheran college also advanced significantly this year in the field of athletics. clc fielded its first football team. the team, under the direction of coach robert shoup, ended with the creditable record of 3 wins and 4 losses. much hard work and expenses went into the creation of this first football team, and no matter how successful clc teams are in the future or how unsuccessful, the spirit and sense of team effort will not soon be surpassed.

the kingsmen ended their 27 game season with a 14-13 record. But they played better than the record shows. despite the fact that they won only one more game than they lost, they scored 106 points more than their opponents. c.l.c. averaged 77 points per game, against 73 for their opponents. also, they lost two games by only one point; one game by just two points; one game by three points; one game by four points. their particular jinx seemed to have been cal baptist. of their three games with the baptists, all of which ended in defeat, none was lost by more than four points.

baseball was undoubtedly the most successful of clc's sports this year. under the supervision and inspiration of coach luther schwich, the team amassed a total of 15 victories and 7 losses. hidden in this total though was an 11 game winning streak. in the major leagues, the measure of a ball team is how it does in one-run games. this year, clc's kingsmen won five of their six one-run games.

actually the annual staff became quandrious when given a huge pile of photographs which seemingly related to men's intramural sports . . . therefore, the eclectic group, after much deliberation, chose the most erudite they could find. here they are . . . the cross-section. to single out co-ordinators such as paul kilbert, men's representative, and kathy klug, women's representative, would seem honorable . . . so we shall . . . such teams as the jets, prophets, chinese bandits, renagades, hai-nikais, rattlesnake patrol, and elephant racers battled for positions. coach john kahnert organized the meets. the men participated in baseball, tennis, and track.

women's extramural sports

sports days and play days including volleyball, field hockey, basketball, swimming, and badminton were in the calendar of events for the 1962-63 women's extramural sports activities. the scheduled colleges included u. c. l. a., long beach state college, san fernando valley state, mount st. mary's, pepperdine, and cal western.

for just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with christ.

the tedium plods on . . . . weakened, tottering, helpless, faint, the tender shoot endures. clc is carved upon mt. clef.

california lutheran college has welcomed a new class. after being the co-operative victims of a week-long game of organized teasing, the freshmen soliloquize with a rousing bon-fire and mixer. the new has commenced.

receiving students in a formal reception were;

dr. & mrs. o. dahl
dr. & mrs. s. eastvold
mr. & mrs. charles dold

temporary chapel services were held in the large tent, better known in common circles as the "tabernacle." every morning students massed (not a good word) to the tent to hear pastors and faculty bring stirring messages, strengthening our unity as christians . . . . and challenging the fiber of our faith.

"madame . . . . you are a butterfly" and a delightful "madame butterfly" at that . . . . under the setting of clc's greek theatre . . . . the outdoor stage . . . . the first concert-lecture series was produced . . . . everyone was disappointed . . . . because the female lead died in the third act . . . . . verily oriental.

the tabernacle proved an appropriate setting for the aws sponsored talent show, "stars under the big top," being mc'd by colorful fritz ohlrich, featuring such stars as ann wieman, bill ewing, hap stevens, gary alexander, joan barna, cathy gabrielson, jim bessey, karen satrum, carol aaronson, "the kingsmen", doug millar and other inspiring artists.

late in november, clc's newly constructed gymnasium.. chapel.. auditorium became the setting for the dedication of the eight-building centrum. dr. herbert reining, member of the board of regents delivered the dedicatory address.

adding an active branch to clc's second historical year was the music department's pop concert and the sadie hawkins dance. entertainingly light by nature, both activities added zest to the november calendar. sue jurney and stu major were sadie and lil' abner, respectably.

"d-day" . . . honoring dr. o. dahl, clc's first president heard praises from students, senator lagomarsino, and its newly sung alma mater. dr. dahl holds a special place in the hearts of the students and faculty.

the tree grows . . . the earth succumbs to its tenacious roots . . . groves are created . . . the orchestra completes its first concert of the year . . . powder puff games are mentored, sandra fabian wins 1st place, jr. women's oratory, western states tourney, and jake, clc's locquacious windmill creates a modest gasconade.

with doors decorated in alpha and beta halls, and the inn all aglow, campus life took on added spirit. bach's christmas oratorio was performed by the music department. the annual jul danse was held in the decorated cafeteria with the sophomore class representative, sybil horne being chosen queen. miriam bloomquist and carol virak were the attendants at this festive function. clc prepared once again for the birth of its king.

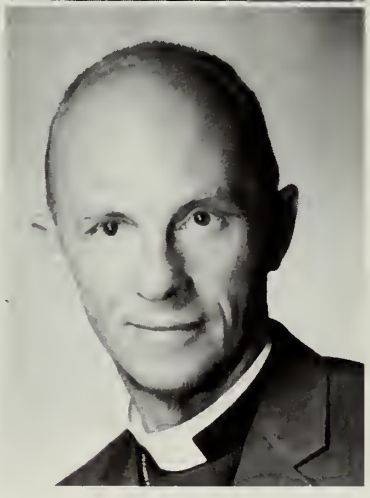
ayn rand's "night of january 16th" directed by barbara hudson powers brought an exciting trial to the clc campus. in the key roles were miriam bloomquist, maureen edwards, otis kline, lloyd andreas "ant," james tschida, and al gildard. nightly, the audience-selected-jury haggled to reach its debatable verdict.

director noble and the luther college choir from decorah iowa brought greetings from dr. & mrs. e. farwell (luther's newly installed president) and delighted clc with their sacred concert. ben weber, creative arts instructor, assembled an exhibition of pottery and ceramic sculpture which brought the versatility of this artist's work to clc's attention.

jr. class president bob atkinson presents to dr. elwin farwell a trophy establishing recognition for students achieveing academic excellence (to be awarded annually to a member of the graduating class). the dr. elwin farwell trophy was presented at a formal reception given to the farwells prior to their departure for luther college.

the chapel choir & wind ensembles co-directed by walter birkedahl & c. robert zimmerman pleased the audience gathered below the vaulted roof of the cafeteria. dr. hubert herring, authority on latin america affairs, analyzed the historical data which has dissolved into the present situation in that area. dr. herring's lecture stimulated students and faculty in this second presentation of the concert-lecture series.

christian re-emphasis week re-strengthened the vine in us. dr. swanson (st. olaf) and dr. noren (denver, colorado) spent one week on campus to bring us greater insight into the theme "jesus christ the light of the world" and challenges to our faith. the art department created a symbolic mural in the chapel-auditorium to culminate one of the most exciting weeks on campus. the string ensembles, directed by betty shirey bowen, further enriched the calendar of february.



students are stirred . . . acquaintances have been grafted . . . the branch develops. amy lee arney and jerry slattum bring attention to compositions in sound and line giving greater impetus to man's communicable senses within the milieu of 20th century interpretations. boss.

lola montez and her spanish dancers created a lively evening for the concert-lecture series animating the spanish dances into ceremonies of impetuous determination. fine. the valley jr. ballet theatre and the college-community orchestra focused their efforts on excerpts from the "nutcracker" and "the runaway mop."

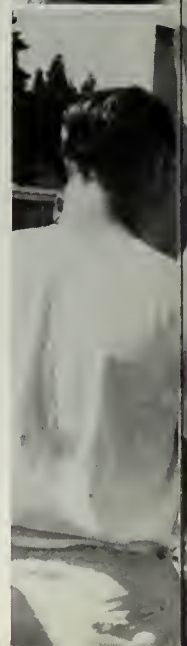
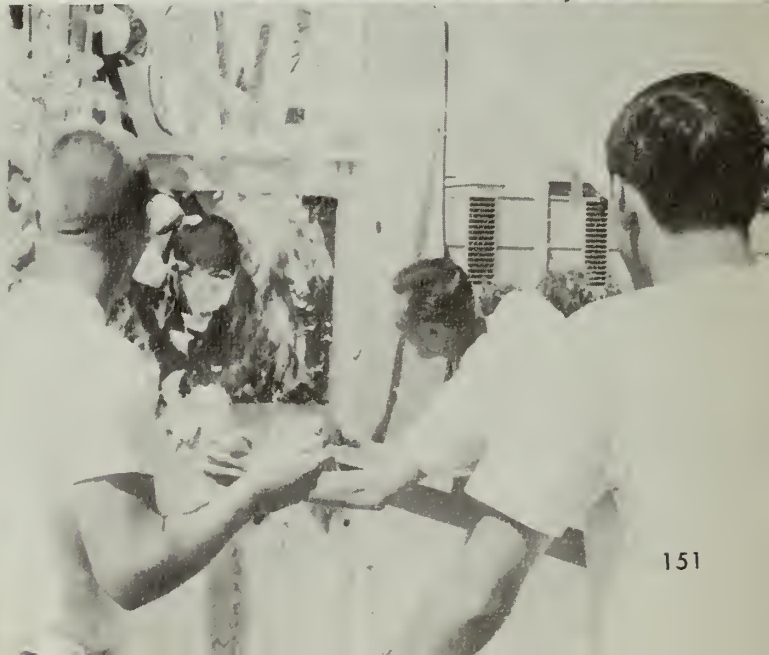
traveling to washington d. c. to represent clc in a student government conference was paul anderson. traveling to hawaii was our successful forensics squad who returned victorious with four glittering trophies. a touch of the deep, deep south (swanee swing) certainly entertained clc students as they watched singing minstrels under the direction of bill ewing.

with elegantly formal attire, the prom "camelot" saw clc select marty ronning as queen and fred kemp as king. marni nixon, soprano who sang the lead in "west side story" and "the king and i" joined clc's concert-lecture series to present a vivid expression of the light opera . . . the art students who entered lutheran brotherhood's art exhibition were honored with a banquet . . . a hay ride . . . a victorious elephant race at dumbo downs (with ken priest as "maharaja" driver took second place in over-all race) . . . a luau . . . an exciting carnival raising funds for educational units in the mission fields of africa.

"pretty little saturated may"





under the combined efforts of the art, drama and music departments a "christian arts festival" was created. culminating the year's activities in this festival, mendelsohn's "elijah" was undertaken, involving a highly complex operation. outstanding art students were featured in a retrospective exhibition in the auditorium. "honors day" recognized genuine efforts. bill ewing and linda gulsrud took the spotlight as outstanding students for the year. a most distinguished visitor to clc was alma m. reed, journalist for the mexico city news and an authority on yucatan history and archaeology, who lectured on pre-columbian cultures. miss reed showed slides of the land of the maya and aztec.
